OUTDOOR GYMNASIUM

FOR WOMEN'S COLLEGE. Will Be Feature of New College at New London.

Plans are in preparation for an outdoor gymnasium which is to be a feature of the equipment of Connecticut College for Women. This structure is to be located westerly of New London hall or science building. The dressing rooms will be supplied with heat in winter directly from the adjacent structures by underground pipes. The gymnasium will be one story in height with hip roof. It will be of wood construction and will measure 50 by 60

The principal feature of the outdoor gymnasium is the fact that it will be so constructed that it can be thrown open at the sides in all but stormy weather. This will give the young women students the utmost benefit which can be derived from exercise—that of taking it in an environment of oure, fresh air rather than the stiffing pure, fresh air rather than the stifling and overworked atmosphere of the ordinary indoor gymnasium.

There will be no danger of taking cold, for immediately after completing their gmynastic exercises the students will be provided a properly warmed apartment in which to bathe and dress. Glazed sash sides are provided for the building and these can be dress. Glazed sash sides are provided for the building and these can be readily opened and closed. The bridal couple was unattended and entered the parlor to the music of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin, rendered upon the Victrola by the brother of the bride, George M. Wilson, of Bridgeport. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George H. Strouse, pastor of the First Baptist church, which both the bride and groom attend. The parlor had been attractively decorated with roses with an arch of red rambler roses in one corner under which the bridal couple stood as the ceremony was performed, and from the center of the arch hung a uoral horseshoe of white roses.

The bride was charmingly gowned in white French embroidered mulle, with veil caught with bridal daisies, and she carried a bouquet of bride roses.

A reception followed the ceremony and refreshments were served. The newly married couple left in the early evening to take the boat train for New York, and after a short honeymoon trip they will reside at No. 73 Asylum street. White or colored linen would be ideal for this style, which is also nice for gingham, lawn, cordurov, ratine, crash, chambrey, poplin, voile, taffsta or serge. The waist is made with a yoke cut square over the back where it joins a platted section. The collar is new and stylish. The sleeve in either length is good and shows attractive cuff styles. The skirt is a gored model with platted back panel. The pattern is cut in six sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 6 5-8 yards of 44-inch material for a 36-inch size. The skirt measures about 2 1-4 yards at its lower edge.

A pattern of this illustration malled only address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.
